DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-8, 12, 20-25 and 31-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jannotta.

Jannotta teaches an apparatus for monitoring and controlling vessels containing liquid. Specifically the vessel (storage unit) comprises a plurality of indicators (tracking devices) acting to indicate the presence of liquid level (monitors the presence of an item associated with the storage unit). In addition the apparatus can collect information regarding vessel liquid temperatures (monitors the temperature of the item).

Jannotta further teaches a controller to receive signals from the indicators and a memory device to store information from the controller for future use. In addition, Jannotta teaches the apparatus includes a central monitoring station where signals from a plurality of controllers are received and can be displayed. Examiner notes that the all of the above teachings can be found in the Abstract of Jannotta.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jannotta in view of Official Notice

Jannotta, as described above, further teaches the apparatus is capable of monitoring and/or controlling the operation of any vessel which contains and/or holds a quantity of liquid (column 2; lines 32-42). Jannotta does not specifically teach that these vessels are a refrigerator, an incubator or a blood storage unit. Examiner takes Official Notice that a refrigerator, an incubator and a blood storage unit are old and well known vessels that contain and/or hold a quantity of liquid. As such it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the teaching of Jannotta to specifically mention a refrigerator, an incubator and/or a blood storage unit. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to combine these references as explained in order to monitor and/or control the operation of either the mentioned refrigerator, incubator or blood storage unit.

Claims 13-19, 26-30 and 36-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jannotta in view of Zagami.

Jannotta, as described above does not teach a biometrics, retinal scanning access control system on the vessel which maintains a log of individuals who access the unit. Zagami teaches an access control system for monitoring human access by creating a unique identifier. The system records the arrival data and time creating a tracking record associated with the unique identifier. Zagami further teaches the use of biometric data (e.g. column 4; lines 25-27).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the vessel of Jannotta to include an biometric access control system with log tracking as taught by Zagami in order to provide security to the items in the vessel.
